QBank launch new integration for e-commerce platform Intershop

QBank continues to develop its integration capabilities with various tools. Our latest launch is the integration for the German e-commerce system, Intershop.

Intershop and QBank have been partners for about a year, and now we have taken the next step in offering an integrated solution in between our platforms. This enable us to offer our customers a better and easier solution for managing product related images and videos. It will also decrease their time-to-market.

"We continue to meet high demands for integration solutions for various types of platforms and tools. The partnership with Intershop, will give us a stronger position within the intense communications segment of e-Commerce in Europe", says Carl Petruson, CEO at QBank.

"Excellent customer experience is mandatory for digital commerce and digital assets are an important building block needed to achieve it. That's why we are happy that we have now combined Intershop's integrated web content management and product information management capabilities with best-of-breed digital asset management functionality of QBank", says Nils Breitmann, Enterprise Architect at Intershop.
